Let's Light Up Christmas at Claremont Quarter

Claremont Quarter is set to launch its popular Christmas festivities with its Let's Light Up Christmas celebrations happening on Thursday 21 November between 5pm and 8pm.

Santa himself will be there to kick off the Christmas celebrations including the highly anticipated annual light up of Claremont Quarter's Christmas tree, late night shopping and other festive fun.

Shoppers can enjoy live musical performances from North Cottesloe Primary School and Freshwater Bay Primary School students and a special jazz performance from Perth's leading Jazz musician Cathrine Summers alongside her quartet from 6:15pm.

Join in with festive carols, relax in the pop up bar, enjoy exclusive dining offers in The Lane or get in early and secure your spot for the exclusive four-course Christmas dining experience with prime views for the festival at Academy Café.

As part of the night's festivities, enter into the Christmas giveaway to be in the running to win a $1,000 gift-card which will be drawn on the night.

Hawaiian General Manager of Shopping Centres Scott Greenwood said the annual Let's Light Up Christmas event brings the community together to celebrate the beginning of the festive season.

"As part of our Christmas celebrations this year, we will continue to focus on giving back to the community through Hawaiian's Giving Box Appeal to support those who are facing tough times this festive season," Mr Greenwood said.

"Our shoppers have always been very generous, and we hope this year they will support our partners Foodbank and Variety WA through donations of food, toys and cash donations."

From Saturday 30 November Santa will be in-centre every day until Christmas Eve from 10am to 1pm to discuss Christmas Wishlist's and for high resolution photos for a donation to Hawaiian's Giving Box.

Gift wrapping will also be available in-centre from Monday 16 December until Christmas Eve located near the Mecca entrance.
